9,639 children abducted in 3 yrs: 71.50% girls, most cases

The statistics on child abduction cases reported in the state over the last 3 yrs

BENGALURU

Karnataka continues to fare better than many other States when it comes to overall law and order, with the police implementing firm measures to curb criminal activities. Yet, a spate of child abduction cases has deeply unsettled the State and raised serious concerns about the safety of children. These incidents underline the urgent need for heightened vigilance and collective responsibility to protect minors.

Blaming the police alone for child abduction cases would be misplaced. While law enforcement agencies play a crucial role, parents and guardians also carry a significant responsibility. Children must be closely supervised, and families need to remain alert to potential risks. Karnataka has established special child police units and designated child welfare officers in every police station to address such cases. However, tracing abducted or missing children cannot be seen as the sole duty of the police. Meaningful cooperation from parents, neighbours and the wider community is equally vital to prevent such incidents and to assist in recovery efforts.

Data released by the Home Department paints a worrying picture. Over the last three years — 2023, 2024 and up to November 15, 2025 — as many as 9,639 children have been reported abducted or missing across the State. In 2023, 3,039 such cases were recorded, followed by 3,411 cases in 2024. In 2025, till mid-November, the figure already stood at 3,189.

A particularly disturbing trend is the disproportionately high number of girls among the abducted and missing children. Of the total cases reported during these three years, around 6,891 involved girls, accounting for nearly 71.5 per cent of all child abductions. In comparison, 2,748 boys were reported missing or abducted during the same period.

Year-wise data further highlights the scale of the issue. In 2023, of the 3,039 children abducted, 2,131 were girls and 903 were boys. In 2024, the number rose to 3,411, including 2,436 girls and 975 boys. In 2025, up to November 15, 3,189 cases were reported, with 2,324 girls and 865 boys among them. The recovery rate, however, offers some reassurance. Of the boys abducted in 2023, 873 were traced, leaving 35 cases unresolved. Similarly, out of 2,131 abducted girls that year, 2,089 were found, while 42 cases remain unsolved. These figures highlight both the efforts of the police and the pressing need for stronger preventive measures and community involvement.

Police step up pre-New Year checks at pubs, restaurants

BENGALURU

With the New Year just a few days away, the Bengaluru Police are on high alert across the city. The Bengaluru Police, who are on high alert after incidents like the Delhi bomb blast and the Goa pub tragedy, conducted a late night check across the city.

In order to prevent any untoward incidents during the New Year celebrations and to put a brake on illegal activities, suspicious vehicles were stopped and sudden inspections were conducted. They also visited pubs and restaurants to gather information about the preparations for the New Year celebrations and gave necessary instructions. Senior officers personally went and supervised the inspection work.

To prevent drug use and control illegal activities during the New Year celebrations, inspections have been conducted in various parts of the city. Information is being collected on what precautionary measures have been taken in pubs and restaurants, how many people are seated, and how preparations have been made to manage the crowd, said DCP of Bengaluru North Division BS Nemagowda.

Government rejects claims of unconstitutional nominated members

BENGALURU

The opinion expressed that the government has moved to appoint more than 700 nominated members to 5 Municipal Corporations in the Greater Bengaluru area in contravention of the Constitution by the amendment proposed to Section 30 of the Greater Bengaluru Administration (Second Amendment) Bill, 2025, introduced in the Karnataka Legislative Assembly and that this process has raised doubts that elections to the said Municipal Corporations will not be held for the time being is baseless. This appears to be with a malicious intention to create a wrong impression among the public without understanding the purpose of the amendment.

> It has been stated that it is not appropriate to provide wrong information to the public at a time when the government is taking all necessary steps for the general elections of the five urban corporations of the Greater Bengaluru region.

The Greater Bengaluru Administration Act, 2024 provides for the modification of the boundaries of the Greater Bangalore area from time to time and local authorities may be included in the Greater Bengaluru area by taking steps as per the rules. Until the area so included is re-divided and elections are held, the said new area will not have any representative of the people. There is a possibility that the administration and development of the said area will be hampered as there will be no one to represent the said area in the municipal corporation of that area.

In this context, an amendment has been proposed to Section 30, providing for the nomination of at least one person per 20,000 population of a local resident of the local area to be included in the Greater Bengaluru area as an additional member of that particular municipal corporation. Since such a nominated person is not an elected representative, he shall not have the right to vote in that Municipal Corporation and only the person who conducts the election for that local area shall be allowed to continue as a nominated member.

In the event of merger of any part of a Panchayat area into a smaller urban area, provision has also been made in Section 360 (d) of the Karnataka Municipalities Act, 1964 for the Government to nominate a person who is ordinarily resident of such area as an additional councillor for the reconstituted Municipal Council.

HC scraps ₹2 lakh payout, rejects false crash claim

BENGALURU

The High Court has overturned a Rs 2- lakh compensation award to a Shivamogga man, ruling that his claim of a 2013 bike accident was based on contradictory statements and a fabricated story.

Justice Umesh M Adiga set aside a Sept 2019 award of Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (MACT), Shivamogga, which had granted Rs 2 lakh to Raghavendra, a resident of Thirthahalli taluk, for injuries allegedly sustained in an accident on Sept 15, 2013, near Eshwara Temple, Arakere in Shivamogga district. Raghavendra had appealed against the MACT verdict, which ordered both the vehicle owner and National Insurance Company Limited to pay him, and sought Rs 28 lakh for permanent disability sustained as a pillion rider when he and the rider, Annappa, met with the accident due to another motorcyclist's rash and negligent riding.

The insurer filed a separate appeal disputing the involvement of the insured vehicle. Justice Umesh M Adiga noted that Raghavendra gave varied accounts to different medical officers. He first stated that Annappa, his brother-in-law, did not suffer injuries, then later said he sustained minor ones. At Sahyadri Narayana Hrudayalaya, the claimant stated that the accident was caused by a collision between two vehicles.

However, later at Wenlock Hospital in Mangaluru, he told the doctors that he skidded and fell. The judge recorded that the complaint was filed 86 days after the accident, with Raghavendra explaining that he delayed filing as the rider promised to cover medical expenses but failed to do soothed medical records from Wenlock Hospital reveal that the claimant reported to the medical officer that he skidded and fell from the motorcycle, a narrative deemed credible by Justice Adiga. However, the judge criticised the tribunal for not thoroughly considering the evidence, asserting that merely filing a police charge sheet does not validate the claimant's account when doubts arise. While a charge sheet typically serves as prima facie evidence, Justice Adiga noted that substantial evidence, including admissions from both the claimant and rider during cross-examination, justified scepticism regarding the charge sheet's claims.

As a result, Justice Adiga upheld the insurer's appeal, dismissed Raghavendra's contention and ordered a refund of amount deposited by insurer under the tribunal's order.

Metro Fare Panel rules out price reduction

BENGALURU

There is increasing pressure to reduce the fares of the Namma Metro. Metro passengers are demanding that the fares be reduced. Cyber trap using Ayodhya donations: Devotee loses ₹8 cr in fraud

BENGALURU

A 71-year-old Bengaluru-based businessman and ardent devotee of Lord Ram has fallen victim to a sophisticated cyber fraud, losing over ₹8 crore after being lured into a fake stock market investment scheme. The fraudsters allegedly exploited his recent financial history and religious associations to gain his trust.

The victim, Rajendra Naidu, is known for his devotion to Lord Ram and has donated generously to the Ram temple in Ayodhya. Along with his family, he had contributed silver puja items and a large bell for daily rituals at the temple. Investigators believe the fraudsters used publicly available information and targeted profiling to identify him as a high-value victim.

According to police, the accused contacted Naidu shortly after he repaid a loan taken from Reliance Capital. Posing as investment advisors, they informed him that his CIBIL score was excellent and persuaded him that investing in the stock market would generate high returns. Naidu, who runs charitable services, agreed to invest with the intention of using the profits for philanthropy.

The fraudsters falsely invoked the name of reputed financial institutions, including Reliance, to build credibility. They then asked Naidu to download a mobile application named "RARCIIpro," which closely resembled a legitimate stock trading platform.

Trusting the representations, Naidu initially transferred ₹25 lakh via RTGS to bank accounts provided by the accused. The app reflected the amount as a successful investment, reinforcing his belief that the platform was genuine. Encouraged by the apparent growth shown on the app, he continued transferring funds in phases over the following months.

By November, Naidu had transferred a total of ₹8.03 crore to multiple accounts controlled by the fraudsters. The fake app eventually displayed an inflated balance of ₹59.4 crore, prompting him to attempt a withdrawal. When the funds could not be accessed and the contacts became unreachable, he realised he had been cheated and approached the police.

A case has been registered, and cybercrime investigators are tracing the money trail and the accused, while urging citizens to verify investment platforms before transferring funds.

Despite this, he had passed the exam and made a show in the village that he had become a PSI. He had done a photo shoot wearing a police uniform, baton, cap and shoes. He had also given a buildup in his hometown Siraguppa that he had become a PSI in Bengaluru.

Mallikarjuna had taken a detour to live a luxurious life. For this, Mallikarjuna was accompanied by accused Hrithik, who had been observing Naveen very closely. He had told Mallikarjuna that if he broke into Naveen's house, he would get money and gold ornaments. Accordingly, the accused entered Naveen's house in a car on the 7th of this month, dressed in police uniform.

They threatened to search the house if they were selling ganja. They attacked Naveen with a stick and an iron rod. They said that they should not be arrested, that is, they should pay the money, so they stole 87 thousand from the account, 53 thousand from the wallet, and 2 thousand from the purse and fled. Naveen had filed a case in this regard at the Vidyaranyapura police station.

Police have arrested four people, including a fake PSI, in an operation. They have seized Rs 45,000 in cash and the car used in the crime. The investigation by Vidyaranyapura police is ongoing.

CONGRESS RALLY AGAINST 'VOTE CHORI' IN NEW DELHI

Senior Cong leaders launched a sharp attack on the Modi–Shah leadership and Election Commission, alleging large-scale 'vote chori' nationwide

NEW DELHI

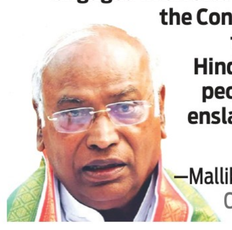
Senior Congress leaders on Sunday targeted the Narendra Modi-Amit Shah duo and the Election Commission over 'vote chori'. Leader of Opposition in Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi claiming that the poll body is doing the job assigned by the ruling BJP said that it should remind itself that it is India's poll body and not the Prime Minister's.

At the party's 'Vote Chor, Gaddi Chhod' rally at Ramlila Maidan, Rahul also claimed that people will throw away the "RSS government" within five minutes if there is no stealing of votes, while Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge and Priyanka Gandhi Vadra too joined him in the attack against Modi, Shah, BJP and the EC.

Priyanka said every step of the poll process arouses "suspicion" and challenged the BJP to fight an election on paper ballot, while Kharge alleged that the BJP functionaries are "gaddars" (traitors) and "dramebaaz" (indulge in theatrics), "who needed to be removed from power".

Addressing the rally after collecting over 5.5 crore signatures against 'vote chori', Rahul asserted that the Congress will fight against the "stealing" of people's rights and remove the "RSS government" using "satya and ahimsa (truth and non-violence)". He said 'vote chori' is the "biggest attack on Ambedkar's Constitution...they managed to squeeze small businessmen, implement wrong GST, demonetisation, etc. due to 'vote chori'. Mentioning the names of CEC Gyanesh Kumar and ECs Satbir Singh Sandhu and Vivek Joshi, he said the Election Commission is doing all jobs given to them by the government, which has given them legal immunity for the actions. However, he warned that the Congress will change the law with retrospective effect and take action against them.

BJP MP Sambit Patra on Sunday accused the Congress of politicising allegations of vote theft by staging its 'Vote Chor, Gaddi Chhod' rally at Ramlila Maidan against the Special Intensive Revision (SIR), despite the issue being debated in Parliament, and claimed the protest was intended to shield infiltrators.



The BJP-RSS people are engaged in efforts to finish off the Constitution. In the name of Hindutva, these people want to enslave the poor again.

—Mallikarjun Kharge, Cong president

Rally against "vote chori" to protect every citizen's right. We have collected 1.27 crore signatures from Karnataka in the campaign against vote theft. Everyone here has come to protect the voting rights of people.

—D.K. Shivakumar, K'taka DCM

We have come to protect the most sacred right granted to every citizen by our Constitution — the right to vote. The power of voting is the foundation of our democracy.

—Siddaramaiah, K'taka CM

B'desh summons Indian envoy over alleged anti-election activities

DHAKA

Bangladesh summoned Indian High Commissioner Pranay Verma, raising concerns over alleged anti-election activities by fugitive political figures, including former Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina, currently in India. Dhaka claimed that public statements by Hasina were encouraging her supporters to engage in violence aimed at disrupting Bangladesh's upcoming parliamentary elections scheduled for February 2026.

During the meeting, Bangladesh urged India to halt such activities and extradite Hasina and former Home Minister Asaduzzaman Khan Kamal to face legal proceedings in Bangladesh. The interim government also alleged that other fugitive Awami League leaders residing in India were plotting violence to obstruct the electoral process. Concerns were also raised about suspects linked to the attempted assassination of Dhaka-8 independent candidate Sharif Osman Hadi potentially fleeing to India, requesting India's cooperation in their apprehension and extradition.

The Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) reiterated that Indian territory has never been used for activities against Bangladesh's interests. India emphasized its support for free, fair, and peaceful elections in Bangladesh while placing responsibility for internal law and order in Dhaka.

CBI chargesheets 4 Chinese behind cyber crime racket

NEW DELHI

The CBI has filed a chargesheet against 17 individuals, including four Chinese nationals, and 58 companies for allegedly running a transnational cyber crime racket that siphoned off more than ₹1,000 crore through a complex network of shell firms and digital frauds, officials said on Sunday.

The racket was busted in October, after which investigators uncovered a single, well-coordinated syndicate supported by a sophisticated digital and financial infrastructure. The group is accused of operating multiple fraud schemes, including fake loan apps, bogus investment platforms, Ponzi and multi-level marketing models, fraudulent part-time job offers and online gaming scams.

According to the chargesheet, illicit funds were layered through 111 shell companies using mule bank accounts, with around ₹1,000 crore routed through these entities.

MLAs Urged to Attend Sessions Fully and Seriously

Gadada criticized the five-day session for ignoring North Karnataka issues, with MLAs focusing on politics instead of public concerns

BELAGAVI

Activists and local citizens are demanding strict action against MLAs who fail to attend the full legislative session. The call comes after concerns that many MLAs from North Karnataka are neglecting their duties, attending only briefly and spending time in social gatherings instead of discussing regional issues.

Right to Information activist Bhimappa Gadada criticized the low participation of MLAs in the winter session held at the Suvarna Vidhana Soudha. "Out of 224 MLAs, 110 have not attended a single day properly. They come only to collect their daily allowance and skip important discussions," Gadada said. He emphasized that government facilities should not be provided to those who do not take part fully in House proceedings.

Gadada also suggested introducing a biometric system for MLAs similar to that used for government employees. "Attendance should be tracked for every activity, even breaks. This is necessary to ensure accountability and restore respect to the House," he added.

According to Gadada, the five-day session largely ignored North Karnataka issues. Instead, MLAs focused on lunch and dinner meetings, wasting time on political discussions rather than public concerns. "They are here for politics, not for solving the region's problems. Proper discussions about irrigation projects, development funds, and local grievances must take place," he stated. The activist further urged the government to hold monthly cabinet meetings at Belagavi and set up secretary-level offices in the Suvarna Vidhana Soudha. He said that people traveling from distant areas, like Bidar, should not bear unnecessary costs for issues that could be addressed locally. Gadada also called on political leaders to focus on governance rather than internal party conflicts. He criticized misuse of public funds and called for allowances to be restricted to MLAs who fully participate. Citizens hope these demands will push MLAs to actively represent North Karnataka and ensure that the region's pressing problems receive proper attention during legislative sessions.

TERMORS IN DAVANAGERE

Strong tremors shake villages, residents panic

DAVANAGERE

Villages along the borders of Jagaluru, Kudligi, and Challakere talukas in Davanagere district were shaken by a strong earthquake on Saturday evening, leaving residents frightened and anxious.

The tremors struck around 7:30 pm, accompanied by a loud rumbling noise that rattled houses and sent villagers rushing outdoors. People, including children and the elderly, spent hours outside their homes in fear, returning only around 9 pm as the night grew cold. Several villages reported the quake's impact, including Chikkamallanhole in Jagaluru taluk, Mudalma Chikere, Dibbadahalli, Siddamma Nahalli, Kullalli in Kudligi taluk, and Tare Kolamma Nahalli in Challakere taluk. Residents described shaking homes, falling utensils, and a sudden loud "dham" sound that startled everyone.

Chiramji, a farmer from Chikkamallanhole, said, "We felt the ground moving, and a loud noise made plates and glasses fall in many homes. It was frightening." Many villagers remained cautious even after the tremors subsided, reflecting the fear such events generate in rural communities.

Authorities have urged calm while assessing the situation and inspecting buildings for any damage. No injuries or major structural damage have been reported so far.

The incident highlights the need for increased awareness and preparedness in areas prone to seismic activity. Residents are being advised to follow safety measures during such events, including staying away from unstable structures and keeping emergency supplies ready.

Experts are monitoring the region for any aftershocks and will provide guidance if further tremors occur, ensuring that villagers can stay safe while normal life gradually resumes.

Delhi chokes as AQI breaches 450; GRAP-4 kick in across NCR

New Delhi

As stricter pollution norms under the Graded Response Action Plan (GRAP) Stage 4 came into force, emergency curbs were triggered across Delhi on Sunday as the city's air quality continued to deteriorate. The Commission for Air Quality Management (CAQM), the Centre's anti-pollution panel, first invoked restrictions under GRAP-3 for Delhi and adjoining areas and escalated them to GRAP-4 later the same evening after observing a sharp worsening of air quality. Shortly after the decision, Delhi's Air Quality Index (AQI) stood at 431 at around 4 p.m. and further climbed to 441 by 6 p.m.

Oppn should learn from Bihar's SIR process: Dilip Jaiswal

New Delhi

The Congress party's rally at Ramlila Maidan in Delhi on Sunday over alleged 'vote chori', BJP leaders rejected the charges and questioned the intent and scale of the protest, with Bihar Minister Dilip Jaiswal suggesting that the opposition leaders should learn from Bihar's SIR process. Reacting to the Congress rally, Jaiswal defended the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) process and cited Bihar as a successful example. The SIR process was first introduced in the country in Bihar, focusing on the revision of the donor list. In Bihar, more than a crore donors fully supported SIR and the proper updating of the list. Once the SIR process was completed in Bihar, there was a record turnout, and donors openly contributed.

NHRC takes notice of 'proxy governance'

New Delhi

The National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) has said it has taken serious cognisance of the continuing and widespread practice of proxy governance in Panchayati Raj Institutions (PRIs) and Urban Local Bodies (ULBs), particularly in constituencies reserved for women. The issue stems from a complaint filed by Sushil Verma, former Member of the Haryana State Commission for Protection of Child Rights, which was examined by a bench of the Commission headed by NHRC Member Priyank Kanoongo on December 12.

Eknath Shinde visits RSS headquarters and Dikshabhumi

Maharashtra Deputy Chief Minister Eknath Shinde paid homage at RSS headquarters and Dikshabhumi, highlighting unity, service, and values.

NAGPUR

Maharashtra Deputy Chief Minister Eknath Shinde, accompanied by Shiv Sena ministers and legislators, on Sunday visited the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) headquarters at Reshimbagh and the revered Dikshabhumi in Nagpur, paying tribute to two influential institutions that have shaped Maharashtra's socio-political and cultural landscape. The visits underscored the dual legacies of nationalist service and social justice that continue to influence public life in the state.

At the RSS headquarters in Reshimbagh, Shinde paid respects at the Dr Hedgewar Smruti Mandir and interacted with reporters thereafter. Praising the organisation's century-long contribution to nation-building, he said that every activist experiences a deep sense of patriotism and national love upon arriving at Reshimbagh. According to him, the environment inspires volunteers to dedicate themselves to social service and national service with commitment and discipline.

Shinde highlighted the organisational strength of the RSS, noting that its network of branches functions not only across India but also globally. He said the guidance of RSS chief Dr Mohan Bhagwat continues to inspire volunteers, providing them with moral strength and direction in their social and national work. Referring to Nagpur's historical importance, Shinde remarked that the city is not only Maharashtra's sub-capital but also the birthplace of the RSS, founded a hundred years ago by Dr Keshav Baliram Hedgewar.

Emphasising the inclusive philosophy of the organisation, Shinde said that volunteers coming to Reshimbagh rise above divisions of caste, language, and region, dedicating themselves to the nation with a spirit of selfless service. He described it as a historical achievement that an organisation has worked continuously for a hundred years without seeking fame or personal gain. Drawing a parallel with the Shiv Sena, he added that RSS workers, like Sena cadres, step forward selflessly during disasters and crises, guided by values of community service and patriotism.

TN BJP chief to meet Amit Shah amid alliance talks

CHENNAI

Tamil Nadu BJP president Nainar Nagenthran will meet Union Home Minister Amit Shah in New Delhi on Sunday, amid renewed political churn over alliance equations in Tamil Nadu ahead of the 2026 Assembly elections.

Nagenthran's Delhi visit comes in the immediate backdrop of a key development within the AIADMK. At its recent General Council meeting, the party passed a resolution authorising general secretary and former Chief Minister Edappadi K. Palaniswami (EPS) to take the final call on alliance partners for future elections.

Shortly after the resolution was adopted, Nagenthran met Palaniswami at the latter's residence in Chennai, fuelling speculation of renewed coordination between the BJP and the AIADMK. Following the Chennai meeting, Nagenthran travelled by flight to the national capital.

Earlier, speaking to the media in Tamil Nadu, he said his visit to Delhi was to attend a function marking the release of a commemorative postal stamp in honour of Perumbidugu Mutharaiyar, a historic Tamil ruler. However, the political significance of the visit sharpened after he held discussions with Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman.

In a post on the social media platform X, Nagenthran said he met Sitharaman during what he described as a pilgrimage visit and submitted several petitions and representations he had received from the public during his recent outreach programmes across Tamil Nadu.

CBI dismantles major transnational cyber fraud network

NEW DELHI

The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) has dismantled a large and well-organised transnational cyber fraud network and filed a charge sheet against 17 accused persons, including four foreign nationals, and 58 companies, officials said on Sunday. The action follows an extensive investigation that uncovered a sophisticated digital and financial infrastructure used to cheat thousands of citizens across multiple states in India.

According to a CBI press release dated December 14, the accused were involved in running misleading loan applications, fake investment schemes, Ponzi and multi-level marketing (MLM) models, bogus part-time job offers and fraudulent online gaming platforms. The investigation has revealed how a single coordinated syndicate created an extensive digital and financial infrastructure to defraud thousands of unsuspecting citizens, the agency said. The case was registered based on inputs received from the Indian Cyber Crime Coordination Centre (I4C) under the Ministry of Home Affairs, which indicated that large numbers of people were being cheated through online investment and employment schemes.

Although the complaints initially appeared to be isolated incidents, the CBI said detailed analysis revealed striking similarities in applications used, fund-flow patterns, payment gateways and digital footprints, pointing towards a common organised conspiracy.

The CBI further stated that the cyber criminals adopted a highly layered and technology-driven modus operandi, using Google advertisements, bulk SMS campaigns, SIM-box-based messaging systems, cloud infrastructure, fintech platforms and multiple mule bank accounts. Each stage of the operation from luring victims to collection and movement of funds was deliberately structured to conceal the identities of the actual controllers and evade detection by law enforcement agencies, the release said.

Investigators uncovered the backbone of the fraud network, comprising 111 shell companies incorporated with dummy directors, forged or misleading documents, fake addresses, and false business objectives.

Indian Army steps up connectivity restoration in Sri Lanka

NEW DELHI

Under Operation Sagar Bandhu, the Indian Army has intensified efforts to restore critical connectivity in Sri Lanka following the devastation caused by Cyclone Ditwah. An Engineer Task Force of the Indian Army, working in close coordination with the Sri Lankan Army and the Sri Lankan Road Development Authority, has commenced preparatory work at the Chilaw and Kilinochchi bridge sites in Jaffna for the launching of Bailey bridges.

Providing an update on the operation, the Indian Army said preparations are underway for the launch of a Bailey bridge to restore road connectivity in the affected region.

Earlier on Friday, as part of Operation Sagar Bandhu, which was launched to provide humanitarian assistance to the people of Sri Lanka affected by Cyclone Ditwah, an Engineer Task Force of the Indian Army was airlifted and inducted on a war footing to deliver critical engineering support.

The primary focus of the task force, comprising 48 personnel, is the restoration of vital lines of communication, including the repair and construction of damaged roads and bridges.

The team includes specialised bridging experts, surveyors and watermanship specialists, along with personnel trained in operating heavy earth-moving equipment, drones and unmanned systems. This combination enables precise, rapid and effective engineering support in challenging terrain and weather conditions.

The Engineer Task Force is currently holding four sets of Bailey bridges, which were airlifted by C-17 aircraft of the Indian Air Force to support the restoration of disrupted connectivity. In addition, the team is equipped with pneumatic boats, outboard motors, HESCO bags and new-generation equipment such as heavy-payload drones and remotely controlled boats to enhance operational capability. Meanwhile, the Indian Army's field hospital established in Mahiyanganaya near Kandy is being wound up as local medical services return to normal.

BJP victory in Thiruvananthapuram boosts party confidence: MP

INDORE

Buoyed by the Bharatiya Janata Party's (BJP) significant victory in the Thiruvananthapuram Municipal Corporation elections, Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Mohan Yadav on Sunday expressed strong confidence that the party would continue to expand its footprint in Kerala. Describing the outcome as a turning point in the state's political history, Yadav said the result reflected a growing acceptance of the BJP's ideology and governance model among voters in the southern state.

The BJP's win is being viewed as historic, as the party managed to wrest control of the Thiruvananthapuram Corporation from the Communist Party of India (Marxist), ending a 45-year-long dominance of the Left in the civic body. Kerala's capital city has traditionally been a stronghold of the Left, and the shift is seen as a major political breakthrough for the BJP in a state largely known for its left-of-centre political orientation.

The victory comes just a year after the BJP secured its first-ever Member of Parliament from Kerala, a milestone that had already signalled a gradual but notable change in the state's political landscape. Kerala politics has long been dominated by two major alliances — the Congress-led United Democratic Front (UDF) and the CPI(M)-led Left Democratic Front (LDF). Against this backdrop, the BJP's growing electoral success is being closely watched by political observers.

Mohan Yadav said the Thiruvananthapuram result demonstrated that people in Kerala are increasingly receptive to alternative political narratives focused on development, governance, and nationalism. He added that the BJP's organisational strength, grassroots outreach, and consistent engagement with voters were beginning to yield results, even in regions where the party was once considered marginal.

ECI issues transparency guidelines for SIR hearings

KOLKATA

Election Commission has laid down firm security, venue and transparency instructions ahead of claims and objections hearings in West Bengal.

With the phase of hearing on claims and objections under the ongoing Special Intensive Revision (SIR) in West Bengal set to begin after the publication of the draft voters' list on December 16, the Election Commission of India (ECI) has issued detailed instructions to the office of the Chief Electoral Officer (CEO) to ensure strict compliance with security and procedural norms. The Commission has emphasised that any irregularity or breach of security during the hearing process must be taken seriously and addressed without delay.

Sources within the CEO's office said the ECI has, at this stage, decided against the routine deployment of Central Armed Police Forces (CAPF) for security during the hearing sessions. Instead, the Commission has chosen to rely on the state police machinery to maintain law and order and ensure a secure environment for the proceedings. However, the ECI has made it clear that this approach is conditional and subject to strict monitoring. According to insiders, if any breach of security occurs during the hearings—whether due to negligence, oversight, or deliberate action by the state police personnel deputed at the venues—the CEO's office is required to immediately report the matter to the Commission. Based on such reports, the ECI will decide the next course of action, which could include changes in security arrangements or stricter interventions.

The Commission has also issued a strong warning to electoral officials involved in conducting the hearings. The CEO's office has been instructed to clearly communicate to all concerned Electoral Officers that any deliberate irregularity or deviation from established procedures during the hearing process will invite strict disciplinary action under existing legal provisions. The ECI has underlined that accountability and neutrality are non-negotiable in the revision exercise.

Water storage in TN's Cauvery delta tanks increases

CHENNAI

Copious rainfall during the northeast monsoon and sustained inflows in the Cauvery river system have significantly improved water storage across irrigation tanks in the Cauvery delta, offering major relief to farmers ahead of the peak agricultural season.

Of the 764 irrigation tanks in the delta region, 386 have now reached full capacity, a sharp rise from just 42 tanks recorded three months ago. In addition, 329 tanks have filled beyond 75 per cent of their capacity, underscoring the extent of the recovery in water availability across the agrarian heartland of Tamil Nadu.

The delta districts of Thanjavur, Tiruvarur, Mayiladuthurai and Pudukkottai together account for 737 system tanks fed by rivers and canals, in addition to rainwater, along with 27 non-system tanks dependent entirely on rainfall.

Thanjavur district has the highest concentration of irrigation tanks at 561, followed by Pudukkottai with 170. Tiruvarur has 28 tanks, while Nagapattinam and Mayiladuthurai have three and two tanks, respectively.

A majority of these tanks are located in tail-end areas and play a crucial role in supporting paddy cultivation, particularly during the samba season.

Typically, these tanks receive substantial inflows during September and October. However, this year saw an early rise in storage levels, with many tanks crossing the 50 per cent mark by the end of August itself. This was largely due to the continuous flow of water in key channels such as the Grand Anaicut and Vennaru, coupled with the timely release of Cauvery water from the Mettur dam on the customary date of June 12. Since then, the Mettur reservoir has reached full storage level on seven occasions, aided by surplus releases from Karnataka.

Adequate rainfall during the southwest monsoon in Thanjavur district, followed by above-normal rainfall during the northeast monsoon between October 1 and December 11, further strengthened water availability across the delta.

CHHATTISGARH WINTER SESSION BEGINS

Chhattisgarh Assembly winter session begins in new building

RAIPUR

The Winter Session 2025 of the Chhattisgarh Legislative Assembly commenced on Sunday in Nava Raipur, marking a historic shift as proceedings moved to the newly constructed Assembly building for the first time. The four-day session, scheduled to continue until December 17, has drawn attention not only for its new venue but also for its complete transition to a paperless format, reflecting the state legislature's push towards digital governance.

However, the opening day was overshadowed by the main opposition Congress boycotting the session's first sitting. With Congress legislators absent, the inaugural proceedings saw participation only from members of the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP). The first day was devoted to a special discussion on Chhattisgarh Vision 2047, aligning with the broader national narrative of Developed India 2047. Due to the special nature of the discussion and the boycott, no Question Hour was scheduled on Sunday.

The debate on Vision 2047 focused on long-term development goals, infrastructure expansion, economic growth, social welfare, and governance reforms aimed at positioning Chhattisgarh as a key contributor to India's centenary development vision. BJP legislators initiated the discussion, outlining priorities and proposed strategies for the state's future, while the absence of Congress voices was visibly felt in the House.

Despite the boycott, the session is expected to witness intense legislative activity over the coming days. Members of the Legislative Assembly have submitted a total of 628 questions for the session, including 333 starred and 295 unstarred questions. Significantly, about 96 per cent of these questions were submitted online, highlighting the Assembly's successful adoption of digital processes in its new premises.

In addition, 48 calling attention motions and nine private member resolutions have been listed, indicating that ministers will face detailed questioning and scrutiny.

Thailand launches new offensive against Cambodia

Bangkok

Thailand's military has launched a new offensive against Cambodia to reclaim sovereign territory, spurning mediation efforts including that of United States President Donald Trump. Violence between the two Southeast Asian nations continued on Sunday, a day after Phnom Penh announced that it was shutting all of its crossings with Thailand, its northern neighbour. The conflict stems from a long-running dispute over the colonial-era demarcation of their 800km (500-mile) shared border. Fighting has left at least 25 soldiers and civilians dead and displaced over half a million people on both sides.

Fishermen hurt, boat damaged in China coastguard skirmish

Manila

The Philippines has accused Chinese coastguard ships of firing water cannon at Filipino fishermen near a disputed South China Sea shoal, injuring three people and causing significant damage to two fishing vessels. The Philippine coastguard (PCG) said that nearly two dozen Filipino fishing boats were attacked a day earlier, near an atoll called the Sabina Shoal that falls within the country's 200km (124-mile) Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ). The fishermen faced high-pressure spray from Chinese water cannon, and Chinese vessels attempted aggressive blocking manoeuvres, according to Manila.

Special teams and investigators deployed across England

London

Specialist investigation teams for rape and sexual offences are to be created across England and Wales as the home secretary declares violence against women and girls a national emergency. Shabana Mahmood said the dedicated units will be in place across every force by 2029 as part of Labour's violence against women and girls (VAWG) strategy due to be launched later this week. The use of Domestic Abuse Protection Orders (DAPOs), which had been trialled in several areas, will also be rolled out across England and Wales. They are designed to target abusers by imposing curfews, electronic tags and exclusion zones.

2 students killed and 9 injured in Brown University shooting

Brown University remained under lockdown after a campus shooting killed two students and injured nine others.

RHODE ISLAND

More than 400 law enforcement personnel were deployed across Providence, Rhode Island, as authorities launched an extensive manhunt following a deadly shooting at Brown University that left two students dead and nine others injured. The incident occurred when an armed suspect entered an academic building during examination hours, triggering panic at the Ivy League institution and prompting an immediate lockdown.

According to officials, the suspect entered the Barus & Holley engineering building, where students were taking exams and outer doors had been unlocked. The gunman opened fire inside a classroom before fleeing the scene. Investigators are still trying to determine why the particular location was targeted, Providence Police Chief Oscar Perez said during a news conference.

Providence Mayor Brett Smiley said that authorities do not believe there is any specific, ongoing threat to the public. However, due to the scale of the search operation and the fact that the suspect remains at large, a shelter-in-place order for the campus and surrounding neighbourhoods continues to remain in effect. The shelter-in-place allows law enforcement to do their work in the first phase of the investigation, Smiley said.

The university campus and nearby streets were flooded with emergency vehicles as security was heightened across the city. Local and state police are being assisted by federal agencies, including the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF). Authorities said the suspect has not yet been identified.

Police released a surveillance video showing a male suspect, believed to be in his 30s and dressed in black. Providence Deputy Police Chief Timothy O'Hara said the individual may have been wearing a mask, though this has not been confirmed.

Congressman Thanedar calls for stronger India–US ties

DETROIT

Indian American Congressman Shri Thanedar advocated stronger India–US ties, expanded immigration pathways, and greater Indian American civic participation.

Indian American Congressman Shri Thanedar has made a strong pitch for deepening India–United States relations, expanding immigration opportunities, and enhancing political engagement by Indian Americans, describing the bilateral partnership as mutually beneficial and strategically vital. He was delivering the keynote address at the inaugural India Abroad Dialogue held in Detroit, widely known as the automobile capital of the world.

Addressing a gathering of eminent community leaders, Thanedar emphasised that a strong India–America relationship rests on strategic, economic, and people-to-people foundations. A strong India-America relationship is beneficial to both countries, he said, highlighting how collaboration between the world's largest democracies can drive global stability, innovation, and prosperity.

Representing Michigan's 13th Congressional District, Thanedar praised Indian immigrants for their significant contributions to the US economy, particularly in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) fields and entrepreneurship. He noted that these skills are critical to strengthening America's economic base and sustaining its technological leadership. According to him, the Indian American community's role is directly linked to the country's competitiveness in emerging industries and advanced manufacturing.

Thanedar also thanked India Abroad for launching the 10-city national dialogue series aimed at fostering engagement between policymakers and the Indian American diaspora. Give yourselves a round of applause, he told the organisers, acknowledging the effort to create a structured national platform for dialogue and discussion.

The India Abroad Dialogue, which began in Detroit, is being conducted in partnership with the Foundation of India and Indian Diaspora Studies (FIIDS) and several other community organisations. As part of the nationwide outreach, similar events will be held in 10 cities across the United States. The next dialogue, scheduled in Chicago, is expected to feature Congressman Raja Krishnamoorthi and prominent Indian American physician and community leader Dr. Bharat Barai.

N. Korea completes building 2nd modern regional hospital

SEOUL

North Korea has built its second modern regional hospital as part of leader Kim Jong-un's push to expand medical facilities nationwide to improve public health services, state media reported on Sunday. Kim attended the inaugural ceremony of the Kusong City Hospital in North Phyongan Province to tour the facility.

The hospital follows the opening of the Kangdong County Hospital on the outskirts of Pyongyang last month. Calling the Kusong facility another precious creation, Kim said it reflects the ruling party's determination to strengthen regional areas and advance public health across the country. He also described 2025 as the first year of the public health revolution.

At a plenary meeting last week, the Workers' Party of Korea announced plans to build modern hospitals simultaneously in 20 cities and counties starting next year, based on experience gained from this year's pilot projects.

During the ceremony, Kim reaffirmed his commitment to building modern hospitals across the country to lay a solid foundation for North Korea's public health system.

Describing the Kusong hospital as a model for modernising public health, Kim said it should serve as an example for the development of regional health services through its operation.

He also stressed the need to overhaul the state medical education system, improve the quality of medical workers, and ensure the proper management and operation of modern medical facilities and equipment.

Afghan police intensified anti-narcotics operations, seizing opium and arresting dozens of suspected drug smugglers across multiple provinces.

Afghan police seize opium, arrest multiple suspects

KABUL

Police in western Afghanistan's Herat province have seized 16 kilograms of opium and detained two alleged drug smugglers, as authorities continue an intensified crackdown on narcotics production and trafficking across the country. A provincial police official said on Sunday that the arrests were made during a targeted operation carried out a day earlier.

According to the official, the suspects had concealed the opium inside secret compartments of a vehicle and were attempting to transport the contraband out of Herat province. Acting on intelligence inputs, police intercepted the vehicle and conducted a thorough search, during which the drugs were discovered. The vehicle owners were immediately taken into custody, and further investigations are underway to identify possible links to wider smuggling networks.

The seizure in Herat is part of a broader series of counter-narcotics operations being carried out nationwide. Afghan authorities have reiterated that anti-narcotics police will spare no effort in curbing drug production and trafficking in post-war Afghanistan, which for decades was one of the world's largest sources of opium.

In a statement issued on December 11, the Ministry of Interior Affairs said Afghan counter-narcotics police had arrested at least 31 suspected drug smugglers and seized 258 kilograms of illicit drugs during coordinated operations in several provinces. The confiscated drugs included 194 kilograms of opium, 35 kilograms of hashish, and 29 kilograms of methamphetamine.

According to the ministry, these operations were conducted in the western province of Herat and the northern provinces of Kunduz and Baghlan, where four individuals were detained. In addition, a separate series of raids in the capital, Kabul, resulted in the arrest of 27 suspects accused of involvement in the sale, purchase, and smuggling of illegal drugs. Earlier, on December 10, provincial police spokesman Ehsanullah Kamgar said Afghan police arrested another individual in northern Afghanistan's Badakhshan province on charges of drug smuggling.

Missing Belgian woman's phone found 2 yrs after she disappeared

SYDNEY

Police in Australia's Tasmania said on Sunday they will join a privately organized search for Belgian woman Celine Cremer, who went missing in remote wilderness more than two years ago, after her mobile phone was discovered. Cremer disappeared near Philosopher Falls in June 2023. Her car was found nearby days later, but extensive searches uncovered no trace of her. This weekend, a search organized by her friends and family located her phone in an area previously searched. Police confirmed the phone belongs to Cremer and will undergo forensic analysis. Inspector Andrew Hanson said phone data suggests Cremer may have left the marked track using a navigation app to return to her car as daylight faded, possibly dropping the phone and becoming disoriented. Four friends traveled from Belgium to assist in the five-day search.

Police respond to developing incident at Sydney's Bondi Beach

Australian police on Sunday said they were responding to a developing incident at Sydney's iconic Bondi Beach and urged members of the public to avoid the area as a precautionary measure. Authorities confirmed that emergency services were deployed and the situation was ongoing.

In a statement issued on social media platform X, the New South Wales Police advised people in and around Bondi Beach to remain alert and follow official instructions. Anyone at the scene should take shelter, the police said, without providing further details about the nature of the incident.

Local media reports added to the uncertainty surrounding the situation. The Sydney Morning Herald reported that there were unconfirmed accounts of multiple gunshots being fired near the popular beach destination. However, it remained unclear whether anyone had been injured or whether the reports had been officially verified by authorities.

Bondi Beach, one of Australia's most visited tourist spots, was busy at the time of the incident, prompting concerns over public safety. Police have not released information about suspects, possible motives, or the scale of the security operation, citing the evolving nature of the situation.

Emergency responders were seen converging on the area, and access to certain sections around the beach was reportedly restricted as a precaution. Authorities have asked the public to stay away to allow police and emergency services to manage the situation safely and efficiently.

New South Wales Police said further updates would be provided as more information becomes available. They also urged the public to rely only on official channels for accurate information and avoid spreading unverified reports.

GREEK FARMERS PROTEST

Greek farmers reject talks, vow to intensify protests

ATHENS

Greek farmers have rejected a government invitation for talks and vowed to intensify their protests, which have disrupted traffic and economic activity across the country for a third consecutive week. The decision was taken at a nationwide meeting of farmer representatives held, reflecting growing frustration within the agricultural community over delayed payments and unresolved structural challenges.

According to farmer leaders, dialogue with the government will only take place after authorities respond concretely to a list of demands that farmers intend to submit. They made it clear that symbolic assurances are no longer sufficient and that meaningful engagement must be backed by firm commitments. Until then, protest actions are set to continue and expand.

The ongoing demonstrations have involved widespread blockades of highways, border crossings, and ports, severely affecting domestic travel and cross-border trade. The protests were initially triggered by delays in European Union subsidy payments following a corruption investigation into Greece's agricultural payments agency. These delays have placed additional financial strain on farmers who are already grappling with high input costs and declining margins.

Beyond subsidy issues, farmers are demanding increased state support to offset rising production costs, compensation for livestock losses due to disease outbreaks, relief for weather-related crop damage, and solutions to long-standing structural problems within the agricultural sector. These issues have accumulated over years, leaving farmers increasingly vulnerable to economic shocks.

Experts point out that Greek farmers remain heavily dependent on subsidies, which account for nearly 47 per cent of the average farmer's income. Efstathios Klonaris, professor of agricultural economics at the Agricultural University of Athens, told the local daily To Vima that the sector's dependence on subsidies has deep roots. Farmers are dependent on subsidies.

Saving energy today secures India's power tomorrow: Joshi

The minister emphasized the government's commitment to promoting renewable energy, conservation, and building a cleaner, environmentally responsible Bharat.

NEW DELHI

Union New and Renewable Energy Minister Pralhad Joshi on Sunday said that saving energy today is crucial for strengthening India's energy security in the years to come. He stressed that responsible energy use will help the country move towards a safer and greener future.

In a message shared on social media platform X, the minister highlighted the importance of energy conservation in nation building. He said that every unit of power saved today adds strength to India's energy security tomorrow and supports sustainable development. Joshi urged citizens to adopt simple and efficient energy practices in their daily lives.

The minister's remarks come at a time when the central government is strongly promoting renewable energy and conservation efforts across all sectors. He reaffirmed the Centre's commitment to building a cleaner and environmentally responsible Bharat.

Earlier, Joshi informed Parliament that the government has no plan to cancel or scrap any green energy project in the country. In a written reply, he clarified that no renewable energy project awarded so far has been cancelled, nor has any list been prepared for future cancellations.

He stated that Renewable Energy Implementing Agencies such as SECI, NTPC, NHPC and SJVN have issued letters of award for 67,554 megawatt of renewable power projects since April 2023.

Joshi also said that state governments are issuing their own renewable power tenders. In addition, renewable capacity is growing in commercial and industrial sectors through green energy open access and captive routes.

The minister noted that falling costs of solar-plus-storage systems are making them attractive to power distribution companies, as they supply electricity during peak demand hours.

India powers global growth with innovation drive: Prof Sood

NEW DELHI

India is supporting nearly 18 per cent of the world's population while steadily moving towards its ambitious goal of becoming a $5 trillion economy, Principal Scientific Advisor to the Government of India, Prof Ajay Kumar Sood, said on Sunday.

Speaking at the First DV Kapur Foundation Energy Innovation Awards in the national capital, Prof Sood highlighted the close link between economic development and energy consumption. He said innovation in the energy sector will play a decisive role in shaping India's future growth and overall well-being.

Prof Sood pointed out that a country's Human Development Index, or HDI, is strongly connected to how much energy it uses. He noted that India's average HDI is around 0.67, while developed nations record levels close to 0.9. At present, India consumes nearly 21 gigajoules of energy per person each year, but bridging the development gap would require almost 56 gigajoules per person.

He stressed the need for urgent action and said India's innovation ecosystem is rapidly evolving. Special focus is being placed on deep-tech research through initiatives such as the Anusandhan National Research Foundation, which aligns with the vision

Prof. Sood noted that a country's HDI closely links to energy use; India's 0.67 HDI requires 56 GJ per person to match developed nations of a Viksit Bharat.

During the event, Prof Sood felicitated innovators who have contributed to technologies that address India's growing energy needs while supporting long-term sustainability.

The Energy Innovation Awards were presented in two categories. The first category recognised young innovators below the age of 38, while the second honoured individuals and organisations for major contributions to energy technology.

Former Union Minister and Chairman of the DV Kapur Foundation, Dr Suresh Prabhu, also spoke at the event. He highlighted the changing energy landscape in India and praised the visionary leadership of Dr D V Kapur, the founder Chairman of NTPC.

Investor wealth surged as BSE-listed companies' total market capitalization surpassed Rs 470 lakh crore, gaining over Rs 3 lakh crore

Key economic cues to guide markets ahead

MUMBAI

After ending the previous week on a strong note, Indian stock markets are expected to take direction this week from several important domestic and global factors. These include wholesale price inflation data, progress in India–US trade talks, movement of the rupee, and continued foreign investor activity.

On Friday, benchmark indices ended higher. The Sensex rose 450 points, or 0.53 per cent, to close at 85,267.66, while the Nifty gained 148 points, or 0.57 per cent, settling at 26,046.95.

Broader markets performed better, with the BSE Midcap index rising 1.14 per cent and the Smallcap index climbing 0.65 per cent.

Investor wealth also increased sharply. Total market capitalisation of BSE-listed companies crossed Rs 470 lakh crore, adding over Rs 3 lakh crore in a single session.

Looking ahead, inflation data will be closely watched. The Commerce Ministry will release wholesale price inflation numbers for November on December 15.

India–US trade talks will also stay in focus. Officials from both sides recently held discussions to push forward a balanced trade agreement, which could impact trade-linked sectors.

The rupee's movement is another key factor. Foreign fund outflows, importer dollar demand, and global uncertainty have kept the currency under pressure.

Foreign portfolio investors remain net sellers, raising market concerns. Analysts said the Nifty faces resistance near 26,200, while support lies around 25,900.

A break below lower support levels may trigger fresh selling, while positive data and stable global cues could help markets extend gains in the coming sessions of the week ahead, experts added, advising investors to remain cautious and track key economic signals closely for short-term direction markets ahead.

Lakshadweep attracts Rs 519 cr investment

NEW DELHI

The first-ever investors' meet in Lakshadweep has recorded planned investments worth Rs 519 crore aimed at unlocking the islands' fisheries and aquaculture potential, government officials said on Sunday. The event was organised by the Department of Fisheries, Ministry of Fisheries, Animal Husbandry and Dairying (MoFAHD) in collaboration with the Union Territory administration.

Union Minister Rajiv Ranjan Singh highlighted that new fishing rules for India's Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ) now allow fishermen to legally operate with an "Access Pass." This enables exports of high-value tuna and other fish products to international markets. He added that, under international law, resources from the EEZ will now be recognised as "Indian Origin," facilitating trade further.

Singh also mentioned the issuance of 'High Seas Fishing Guidelines,' granting Indian-flagged vessels the legal right to fish in these waters. He urged investors to capitalise on opportunities in the islands, particularly in premium species like tuna, which are in strong global demand.

An interactive session allowed investors to highlight challenges such as transportation to the mainland, cold storage, ice plants, and chilled fish handling centres. They also called for value addition facilities, sashimi-grade tuna processing, fish oil refining, skilled labour development, and ornamental fish brood banks to sustainably utilise Lakshadweep's EEZ.

Minister of State S.P. Singh Baghel emphasised the islands' untapped potential, noting that current production of 14,000 tonnes could reach 1 lakh tonnes. He praised the clean and sustainable pole-and-line and hand-line fishing methods used in the islands and encouraged exporters to explore new markets while leveraging government schemes to strengthen the fisheries value chain.

The meet marks a significant step in promoting Lakshadweep as a global hub for sustainable and high-value fisheries, aiming to boost economic growth and employment opportunities in the region.

India rises as global artificial intelligence power: Report

NEW DELHI

India has emerged as the world's third most competitive country in artificial intelligence, according to Stanford University's Global AI Vibrancy Tool, released on Sunday. The ranking shows that India's rapidly expanding technology ecosystem and strong talent base are helping the country gain global importance in the race to develop advanced AI systems.

Data presented through the Visual Capitalist chart, based on Stanford's findings, places the United States firmly at the top with a vibrancy score of 78.6. China ranks second with 36.95, while India secures third place with a score of 21.59.

This achievement puts India ahead of several advanced economies, including the United Kingdom, Japan, Germany, France, and South Korea. The AI Vibrancy Tool uses multiple indicators such as research, talent, investment, infrastructure, policy, and public opinion to measure how competitive a nation's AI environment is. It also highlights how seriously governments are supporting artificial intelligence growth.

The report notes that wealthier nations generally lead AI development, but India stands out as the only lower-middle-income country near the top. India also ranks among the top three globally in AI talent, reflecting its large pool of engineers and developers.

Experts say the ranking signals growing investment, strong research output, and a thriving startup culture. However, the study warns that unequal AI access could widen global inequality if growth remains concentrated among few nations.

For India, the ranking is seen as a major confidence boost for its digital future and innovation-driven economic growth journey. It strengthens India's position as a key global technology hub in the coming decade and beyond for emerging digital economies worldwide today overall.

DIIs outpace FIIs with strong equity buying momentum

MUMBAI

Domestic institutional investors (DIIs) have significantly outpaced foreign institutional investors (FIIs) in equity markets so far this December, analysts said that FIIs have sold shares worth Rs 15,959 crore, while DIIs have purchased equities totaling Rs 39,965 crore during the same period.

Dr. VK Vijayakumar, Chief Investment Strategist at Geojit Investments, noted that sustained FII selling is unlikely to continue, given the economy's strong performance, improving earnings prospects, and steady inflows from mutual fund systematic investment plans (SIPs). SIP inflows have remained above Rs 29,000 crore for the last three months, with November alone recording Rs 29,445 crore, according to data from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (AMFI).

"The ongoing FII selling is being absorbed effectively by DIIs, supported by robust retail participation through SIPs," Vijayakumar said, adding that continuous FII selling is not sustainable when economic fundamentals remain strong.

Analysts also highlighted that temporary factors, including rupee depreciation, delays in finalising the India-US trade deal, and AI-related developments, have created short-term market pressures but are unlikely to derail growth.

ADB approves $240 million loan for Chennai Metro

NEW DELHI

The Asian Development Bank (ADB) has approved a USD 240 million loan to support the expansion of Chennai's metro rail network, officials said on Sunday. This forms the second tranche of the Chennai Metro Rail Investment Project, part of a USD 780 million multi-tranche financing facility approved in 2022. The first tranche included a USD 350 million loan.

The funding will help develop key sections of metro lines 3, 4, and 5, covering 20 kilometers of elevated and underground corridors and 18 new stations. These stations will feature universal access and disaster-resilient infrastructure to ensure passenger safety during extreme weather events.

"This project will deliver safer, faster, and more reliable daily travel in Chennai while advancing the city's low-carbon development goals," said ADB Country Director for India, Mio Oka. He added that the bank looks forward to continued collaboration to expand metro connectivity and strengthen the city's suburban rail system.

Tranche 2 will finance civil and system works for line 3's elevated section (Sholinganallur–SIPCOT-2), line 4's underground section (Lighthouse–Kodambakkam), and key system components for line 5, including power, traction, and telecommunications. It will also support upgrades to multimodal interchange areas for smoother transfers between metro, buses, bicycles, and other last-mile options.

The project will enhance station inclusivity, improve travel safety for women and vulnerable users, and implement measures to boost non-fare revenue for long-term financial sustainability. Construction under this tranche is expected to be completed by mid-2028.

ADB, a leading multilateral development bank established in 1966, supports inclusive and sustainable growth across Asia and the Pacific. The bank works with its 69 members, including 50 from the region, to develop infrastructure, improve livelihoods, and address environmental challenges.

SUSTAINING ECONOMIC MOMENTUM

CII lays investment blueprint for next decade

NEW DELHI

Ahead of the Union Budget 2026–27, the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) has proposed a six-point investment roadmap aimed at sustaining India's growth over the next decade. The industry body said strong and steady investment will be vital for keeping India among the world's fastest-growing major economies.

CII Director General Chandrajit Banerjee said the upcoming Budget must balance stability with growth. He stressed that boosting investments across public, private and foreign sectors should be a key focus area.

The first recommendation is to strengthen public capital expenditure, which has driven India's recovery after the pandemic. CII suggested raising central government capital spending by 12 per cent and increasing support to states by 10 per cent in FY27. Focus should remain on sectors like transport, energy, logistics and green projects.

To improve efficiency, CII proposed a Capital Expenditure Efficiency Framework to select high-impact projects and closely track their progress and outcomes. It also called for launching a Rs 150 lakh crore National Infrastructure Pipeline 2.0 for the period 2026–32 to give long-term clarity to investors.

The second priority is boosting private investment, which CII said will be the main engine of future growth. It noted that recent tax relief and GST reforms have supported demand, and the next step should be encouraging private sector spending.

Third, CII suggested setting up an NRI Investment Promotion Fund to attract long-term capital into priority sectors like infrastructure and artificial intelligence. Fourth, it recommended strengthening the National Investment and Infrastructure Fund through better alignment with national goals.

The fifth proposal focuses on easing external commercial borrowing rules to improve access to global funds. Lastly, CII called for creating an India Global Economic Forum to deepen engagement with global investors and institutions.

Bhaichung Bhutia calls chaos at Messi's Kolkata event 'disappointing'

Former captain blames poor organisation for denting India's sporting image

RAIPUR

Former India football captain Bhaichung Bhutia expressed disappointment over the chaos that erupted during Argentine great Lionel Messi's event in Kolkata, saying the episode reflected poorly on the country and denied genuine fans the chance to see their idol. He urged organisers to learn lessons to prevent a repeat of such incidents.

Bhutia was speaking to reporters at the airport in Raipur after returning from Jagdalpur, where he attended the closing ceremony of the Bastar Olympic 2025. His remarks came a day after angry fans vandalised parts of the Salt Lake Stadium, alleging mismanagement during Messi's G.O.A.T India Tour 2025, prompting deployment of police and the Rapid Action Force.

"It is a bit disappointing because I heard that around 80,000 fans turned up. Everybody loves Messi, but genuine fans did not really get to see him, which is very unfortunate," Bhutia said. "It also spoils the country's name."

Calling Messi's visit a good initiative marred by poor planning, Bhutia said organisers appeared overwhelmed. "What we saw and heard was that many unwanted, self-claimed VIPs surrounded Messi, while genuine fans didn't get to see him. People travel long distances and pay to watch their hero.

When that doesn't happen, frustration is natural," he added, noting that fans had come from Bengal and the Northeast.

Asked about the state of Indian football, Bhutia said it was "not in great shape" at present but expressed hope that issues would be addressed in the future.

He also praised the Bastar Olympic as a meaningful effort to connect youth, especially from Naxal-affected areas, with sports.

"Sports is the best medium to engage the younger generation. I hope Chhattisgarh, particularly Bastar, produces fine sportspersons," he said, adding that tribal communities are naturally gifted in sports, citing the Northeast's medal-winning record.

The End of an Era: John Cena retires after 23 year WWE career

WASHINGTON

One of professional wrestling's most enduring careers came to an emotional close as John Cena ended his 23-year journey in World Wrestling Entertainment with a defeat against Gunther at Saturday Night's Main Event. The 17-time world champion was forced to tap out to the "Ring General," marking the first time in nearly 20 years that Cena had submitted in a WWE contest.

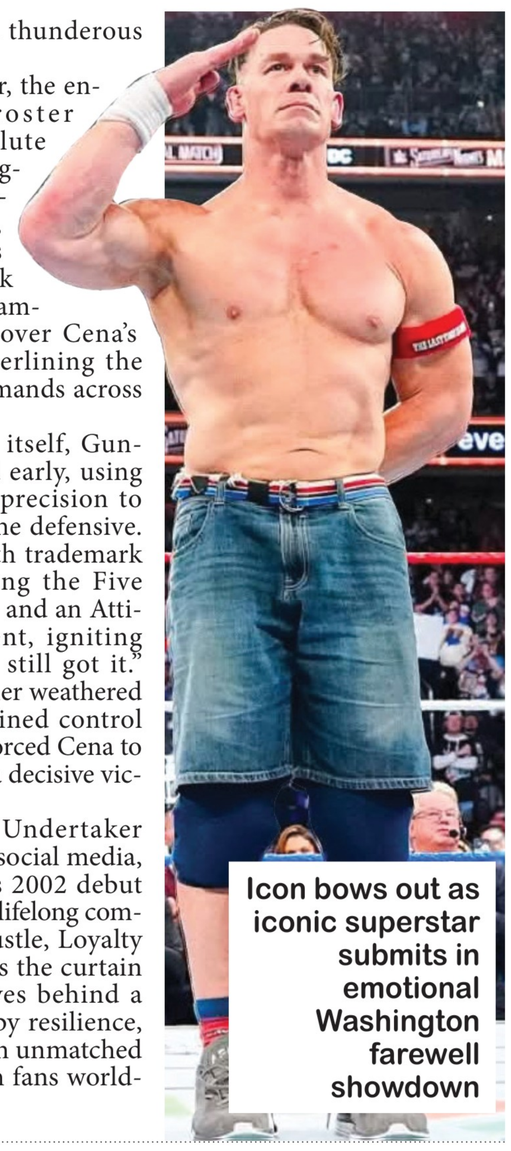
The stunning result left fans inside the sold-out Capital One Arena in disbelief, many watching with hands on their heads as the reality of Cena's farewell sank in. With the loss, Cena closed his career boasting a remarkable resume: 17-time World Champion, five-time United States Champion, four-time Tag Team Champion, two-time Royal Rumble winner and a former Intercontinental champion.

After the bell, Cena soaked in the atmosphere, acknowledging the crowd that had supported him for more than two decades. In a symbolic gesture, he placed his shoes and armband in the centre of the ring before walking up the ramp for the final time. "It's been an honour," Cena said, drawing a thunderous ovation.

Moments later, the entire WWE roster emerged to salute the departing legend. In a touching tribute, Cody Rhodes and CM Punk draped their championship belts over Cena's shoulders, underlining the respect he commands across generations.

In the match itself, Gunther dominated early, using his power and precision to keep Cena on the defensive. Cena rallied with trademark moves, including the Five Knuckle Shuffle and an Attitude Adjustment, igniting chants of "You still got it." However, Gunther weathered the storm, regained control and ultimately forced Cena to submit, sealing a decisive victory.

Earlier, The Undertaker paid tribute on social media, recalling Cena's 2002 debut and praising his lifelong commitment to "Hustle, Loyalty and Respect." As the curtain falls, Cena leaves behind a legacy defined by resilience, discipline and an unmatched connection with fans worldwide.



Icon bows out as iconic superstar submits in emotional Washington farewell showdown

Edited Instagram caption ignites speculation about Cristiano Ronaldo joining final Fast & Furious film

Vin Diesel's Instagram tease sparks CR7 Fast & Furious rumours

LOS ANGELES

A subtle edit to an Instagram caption by Vin Diesel has set social media abuzz, with fans speculating that football icon Cristiano Ronaldo could feature in the final chapter of the Fast & Furious franchise. The post, showing Diesel posing alongside Ronaldo, quickly drew attention after followers noticed a quiet but telling change in its wording.

In the original caption, Diesel recalled having once written a role for Ronaldo in Los Bandoleros, a 2009 short film that served as a prelude to the Fast & Furious universe. While the football superstar was considered at the time, the idea never materialised on screen. However, the edited caption appeared to revive that long-standing "what if".

The updated text read: "Everyone asked, would he be in the Fast mythology… I gotta tell you he is a real one. We wrote a role for him…" The rephrasing, brief as it was, proved enough to send fans into overdrive. Many interpreted it as a hint that Ronaldo might finally be stepping into the Fast & Furious world.

The comments section was soon flooded with theories, ranging from Ronaldo playing a high-octane antagonist to appearing in a cameo befitting the franchise's global scale. Others cautioned that Diesel's words could simply be a playful nod to past conversations rather than a casting reveal.

So far, there has been no official confirmation from the actor or the studio regarding Ronaldo's involvement in Fast & Furious 11, also known as Fast X: Part 2. Until an announcement is made, the speculation remains just that.

The upcoming film is expected to serve as the concluding instalment of the blockbuster series. Diesel will reprise his role as Dominic Toretto, joined by Dwayne Johnson, Jason Momoa and Jason Statham. Reports have also hinted at a respectful return of Brian O'Conner, portrayed by the late Paul Walker. With anticipation already high for the franchise's finale, Diesel's cryptic tease has only added fuel to the excitement surrounding one of cinema's most talked-about action sagas.

PCB miffed after ICC omits skipper Agha from T20 WC ticket sales poster

KARACHI

The Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB) has expressed displeasure with the International Cricket Council (ICC) after the global governing body released a promotional poster for ticket sales of next year's T20 World Cup without featuring Pakistan captain Salman Ali Agha.

According to a reliable PCB source, the issue has already been taken up with the ICC. The poster in question showcased only five captains — Suryakumar Yadav of India, Aiden Markram of South Africa, Mitchell Marsh of Australia, Dasun Shanaka of Sri Lanka, and Harry Brook of England — while leaving out Pakistan's skipper.

"We faced the same issue when the Asia Cup was held a few months back. At that time, the broadcasters had started a promotional campaign without our captain featuring in it," the source said. He added that the situation was corrected only after the PCB formally raised the matter with the Asian Cricket Council.

"We are facing a similar situation again, as the ICC has not projected our captain on the promotional poster for ticket sales," the source noted, describing the omission as disappointing.

While acknowledging that Pakistan are currently not among the top five teams in the ICC T20 rankings, the source stressed that the team carries a rich cricketing legacy and remains one of the biggest attractions in any World Cup.

"Pakistan has always been a major draw for fans globally, regardless of rankings," he said.

The PCB believes that such promotional material should reflect the inclusivity and global nature of the tournament, especially when it involves one of the sport's most followed teams.

The source added that the board is confident the ICC will address the concern and ensure Pakistan's captain is included in upcoming promotional posters and campaigns related to the T20 World Cup.

National wrestling: Aman reigns supreme in 61kg despite injury

AHMEDABAD

Paris Olympics bronze medallist Aman Sehrawat underlined his class and resilience by claiming the men's freestyle 61kg gold medal at the National Wrestling Championships, despite battling a painful eyebrow injury, at the Veer Savarkar Sports Complex in Naranpura.

Competing in Railways' colours, Aman produced a series of authoritative performances to stamp his authority in the weight category. Recently cleared to compete after his suspension — imposed for exceeding the 57kg weight limit at the World Championships in Zagreb — was revoked last month, Aman chose to wrestle in the heavier 61kg division to avoid the strain of drastic weight cuts.

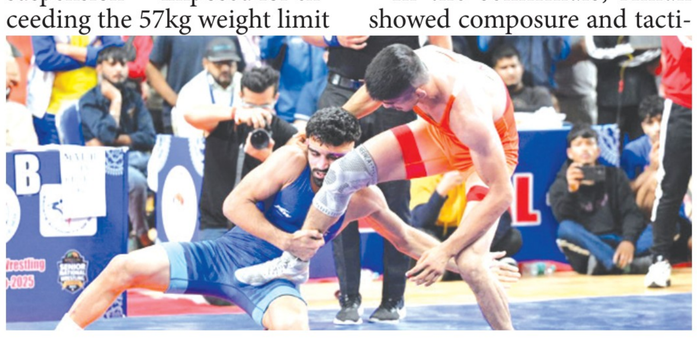
He began his campaign by overpowering Kerala's Adhit Narayan 12-1 before demolishing Madhya Pradesh's Lalit 10-0 in the quarterfinals. During that bout, a clash of heads left Aman with a gash above his left eyebrow, resulting in visible bleeding and swelling. Unfazed, the Olympic medallist returned to the mat with renewed focus.

In the semifinals, Aman showed composure and tactical maturity, recovering from a 0-2 deficit to defeat Rajasthan's Anuj Kumar 13-2. He then capped off a dominant run by trouncing Delhi's Nikhil 10-0 in the final, wrestling with a heavily bandaged head to seal the title emphatically.

"An injury is part of the sport. It was a good outing," Aman said after the final, even as he obliged fans by posing for photographs despite the visible wound.

Elsewhere, world under-23 champion Sujeet Kalkal asserted himself as the leading wrestler in the 65kg category, beating seasoned rival Vishal Kaliraman 10-0 in the final, signalling a new era in the weight class following the Bajrang Punia phase.

In the 57kg division, Ankush claimed gold after defeating Atish Todkar 10-0 in the final, while other categories witnessed several one-sided bouts, underlining the depth of domestic talent on display.



Cameron Green says no complacency as Aus aim to seal Ashes in Adelaide

ADELAIDE

Australia all-rounder Cameron Green has warned against any hint of complacency as the hosts prepare for the third Test against England, mindful of how quickly momentum can shift in an Ashes series. Despite holding a commanding 2-0 lead, Green said lessons from the 2023 contest in England remain fresh.

Australia dominated the early part of that series, winning at Edgbaston and Lord's, before England rallied to win two of the final three Tests, with the other ending in a draw. The series finished 2-2, allowing Australia, led by Pat Cummins, to retain the Ashes as holders.

"That's a good reminder for our team to stay really level," Green told reporters ahead of the third Test at the Adelaide Oval, which begins on Wednesday. "You can sometimes look a bit too far ahead, but it's important we stay focused and finish it off properly."

The odds are firmly stacked in Australia's favour on home soil after convincing eight-wicket victories in Perth and Brisbane. England have not won a Test series in Australia since their 2010–11 tour, and Ben Stokes's side has faced criticism for its preparation and intensity, coming under heavy media scrutiny during the tour.

Green expressed sympathy for the touring side following an incident involving a security guard and a cameraman at Brisbane airport. "You never like getting filmed when you're trying to get away from it," he said. "Anyone in that situation deserves a bit of understanding."

Formula One: 'Nice guy' Norris finishes first, finally!

ABU DHABI

Under the Yas Marina lights, Lando Norris fulfilled a promise a year in the making, sealing his maiden Formula One Drivers' Championship in a moment that warmed the sport. Leading the standings entering the finale, the McLaren driver needed a podium and delivered under pressure. Passed early by team-mate Oscar Piastri and hounded by Ferrari's Charles Leclerc, Norris kept his composure as Max Verstappen lurked in contention. A measured, mature drive earned Norris third place — just enough to clinch the title by two points. In a sport shaped by ruthless champions, Norris prevailed his own way, proving that calm, clean racing can still win titles.

Lionel Messi event organiser remanded, enquiry panel inspects Salt Lake Stadium

Probe intensifies after chaos erupts during Messi visit as organiser faces custody

KOLKATA

Satadru Dutta, the prime organiser of the high-profile Lionel Messi football event in Kolkata, was on Sunday remanded to 14 days of police custody by a Bidhannagar court, even as members of an enquiry committee visited the Salt Lake Stadium to assess lapses in crowd management and security arrangements.

Dutta was arrested by Bidhannagar City Police late Saturday, hours after angry fans vandalised parts of the stadium minutes after Messi left the venue. The Argentine football icon's brief and tightly guarded appearance triggered widespread resentment among spectators, many of whom had paid steep prices for tickets but failed to get even a glimpse of the star.

When Dutta was produced before the court on Sunday, local residents and football fans gathered outside, raising slogans and branding the organiser a "thief", reflecting the depth of public anger over the alleged mismanagement. Police sources said the remand was sought to investigate possible cheating, breach of trust and lapses related to safety and crowd control.

The incident also drew the attention of West Bengal Governor C. V. Ananda Bose, who visited the Salt Lake Stadium earlier in the day. The Governor interacted with officials and members of the enquiry committee and later said he would submit a detailed report to the Centre after reviewing the findings. He stressed the need for accountability and robust protocols for organising international sporting events involving global icons.

According to officials, preliminary observations suggest serious coordination failures between organisers, security personnel and ticketing agencies. Fans alleged that access points were abruptly blocked and Messi was whisked away without any interaction, despite promotional assurances suggesting a longer public presence.

The enquiry committee's visit focused on seating arrangements, barricading, deployment of security staff and adherence to permissions granted for the event. Its report is expected to play a key role in determining responsibility and recommending corrective measures.

Meanwhile, police said further arrests were not ruled out as investigators examine financial transactions, ticket sales and contractual commitments linked to the event. The case has cast a shadow over Kolkata's attempt to showcase itself as a destination for marquee international sporting spectacles.

Top stars set to light up third edition of GCL

MUMBAI

Global Chess League returns in grand style as Mumbai hosts star-studded Season Three

After successful editions in Dubai and London, the Global Chess League (GCL) has arrived in Mumbai, a city whose scale, energy and diversity make it an ideal stage for the third season of the innovative chess extravaganza. The league will unfold over the next 10 days at the iconic Royal Opera House, promising elite competition blended with glamour and entertainment.

A joint venture between Tech Mahindra and the FIDE, the GCL has been conceived as a bold reimagining of how chess can be presented to global audiences. Drawing inspiration from the Indian Premier League, the competition features a franchise-based format, mixed-gender teams and rapid-fire matches designed to appeal to both purists and new fans of the sport.

Season Three is set to feature an array of world-class players, including reigning champions, former world title contenders and emerging prodigies.

The presence of marquee names alongside young talents has become a defining feature of the league, creating intriguing match-ups and unpredictable outcomes. The previous two editions delivered thrilling contests and dramatic finishes, raising expectations for another memorable chapter.

The league's growing stature was underlined at the launch, attended by Anand Mahindra, Chairman of the Mahindra Group, whose vision has been central to the GCL's rapid rise. Mahindra has repeatedly emphasised the need to present chess as both a serious sport and a compelling spectator experience, a balance the league has managed to strike effectively.

Beyond the chessboard, the GCL has also carved a niche through its production values, team branding and fan engagement initiatives. By hosting matches at a historic venue like the Royal Opera House, organisers hope to further elevate the league's profile and create a unique ambience that sets it apart from traditional tournaments.

As Mumbai rolls out the red carpet, anticipation is high that Season Three will not only showcase top-tier chess but also reinforce the Global Chess League's status as the most glamorous and innovative competition in the world of mind sports.

Arsenal survive scare as own goals secure dramatic victory against Wolves

Two own goals save Arsenal as it beats Wolves 2-1 in EPL

LONDON

Arsenal survived a nervy encounter against bottom club Wolverhampton Wanderers, claiming a 2-1 victory thanks to two own goals, one in stoppage time, at the Emirates Stadium. The win moves the Gunners five points clear of Manchester City atop the Premier League table.

Manager Mikel Arteta admitted his side struggled to create clear chances, describing the result as "a boost" despite a nervy performance. Arsenal failed to register a single shot on target in the first half, with Gabriel Martinelli squandering multiple opportunities.

Arteta made three substitutions shortly after the hour mark, bringing on Leandro Trossard, Martin Odegaard and Mikel Merino, which helped spur the hosts into sustained attacking pressure. Declan Rice's second-half effort marked Arsenal's first on-target shot, saved by Wolves goalkeeper Sam Johnstone.

The deadlock broke in the 70th minute when Saka's corner struck Johnstone, ricocheted off his arm, and crossed the line for an own goal. Wolves showed resilience, leveling in the 90th minute through Tolu Arokodare's header off Mateus Mané's cross.

However, Arsenal secured a dramatic late winner when Bukayo Saka's cross was deflected into the net by Wolves defender Yerson Mosquera, completing the second own goal. The Gunners breathed a sigh of relief as Wolves extended their winless streak to nine league games, managing just two points from 16 matches, and remaining on course for their worst Premier League season. Arsenal now look to consolidate their lead, while Pep Guardiola's Manchester City travel to in-form Crystal Palace, seeking to close the gap.

BARCELONA

RAPHINHA brace keeps Bara rolling, heaps pressure on Alonso

Raphinha struck twice as Barcelona beat Osasuna 2-0, extending their La Liga lead and intensifying scrutiny on Real Madrid coach Xabi Alonso ahead of a pivotal away game at Alaves.

The Brazil forward broke the deadlock in the 70th minute with a crisp strike from the edge of the area at Camp Nou before sealing the result with a close-range finish six minutes from time. The victory marked Barcelona's seventh straight league win, lifting the defending champions seven points clear at the summit before Madrid take the field on Sunday.

Barcelona have surged since overturning a five-point deficit following their Clasico defeat in late October. In contrast, Madrid's form has dipped alarmingly, with just one win in five league outings and two victories in their last eight matches across competitions. A recent home loss to Celta Vigo compounded the malaise, leaving Alonso under growing pressure.

The home crowd revelled in their rival's woes, chanting "Stay Xabi!" during the second half, but Raphinha insisted Barcelona's focus remained internal. "If we do our job, we don't have to worry about anyone else," he said, praising the team's consistency and momentum.

Osasuna, 16th, defended stubbornly for long spells, with goalkeeper Sergio Herrera denying Lamine Yamal and seeing Marcus Rashford's effort blocked.

Miller tipped to be among costliest buys at IPL 2026 mini auction, says Bangar

NEW DELHI

David Miller is expected to be among the top three most expensive players at the upcoming TATA IPL 2026 mini auction, according to former India batter and JioStar expert Sanjay Bangar, as franchises fine-tune their strategies ahead of the December 16 event.

With the mini auction approaching, experts weighed in on players likely to attract fierce bidding, including Venkatesh Iyer, Ravi Bishnoi, Cameron Green, Liam Livingstone, Daryl Mitchell, Miller and Jonny Bairstow.

Bangar believes Miller's finishing prowess makes him a premium target. "David Miller will likely be among the top three most expensive players in this auction. Several teams need someone with his experience and composure at the death," he said, adding that franchises such as Gujarat Titans and Kolkata Knight Riders could benefit from the South African's presence, especially with the latter reshaping their core.

Former chief selector MSK Prasad highlighted Venkatesh Iyer's versatility, calling him a "special talent" capable of opening, anchoring the middle order or finishing games for Kolkata Knight Riders. "That kind of flexibility significantly boosts his value at the auction," Prasad noted.

On Ravi Bishnoi, Prasad pointed to the leg-spinner's energy, consistency and fielding excellence. He suggested that Sunrisers Hyderabad, short on quality spin options, and Chennai Super Kings, whose home conditions favour spinners, could both be keen suitors.

Dale Steyn underlined Liam Livingstone's impact as a power-hitter and multi-skilled all-rounder. "He brings a fear factor and can also contribute with both off-spin and leg-spin," the former South Africa pacer said. Irfan Pathan tipped Cameron Green to draw strong interest from teams like KKR and CSK, citing his ability to contribute in both departments.

McCullum admits England have been 'nowhere near' their best

ADELAIDE

England coach Brendon McCullum admitted on Sunday that his side had been "nowhere near" their best in the first two Ashes Tests, while asserting that he would not make drastic changes to a settled lineup ahead of the crucial third Test at the Adelaide Oval.

After heavy eight-wicket defeats in Perth and Brisbane, England face an uphill battle to keep the five-match series alive. McCullum confirmed that the top seven batsmen would remain unchanged, retaining Ollie Pope at number three despite mounting criticism, rather than bringing in Jacob Bethell. "Knee-jerk reactions and chopping and changing settled batting line-ups is not really our way," McCullum said.

The tourists' preparation and lack of fight have come under scrutiny, particularly McCullum's admission that the team "trained too much" before the Brisbane Test, a claim met with disbelief by former players. The team's decision to spend time on the beach in Noosa before moving to Adelaide also drew criticism, though McCullum defended it as a planned break to regain freshness and focus.

"I don't think we've been anywhere near our best so far in these last two Tests … but what's been has been," he said. "Now, it's focusing on the one that's coming. I firmly believe that if we play our best cricket, we're a massive chance in this Test match. We do that, and the narrative changes in the series."

McCullum dismissed concerns about his job security, emphasizing conviction in his methods and faith in the players. He added that the team remains motivated and excited to train in the coming days, aiming to mount a strong response and salvage pride in Adelaide.

England now face a must-win scenario if they are to extend the series and prevent Australia from taking an unassailable lead in the Ashes.

England coach acknowledges struggles while maintaining confidence ahead of Adelaide Test

Teenage pair Ndjantou, Mbaye star as PSG beat Metz to go top

PARIS

Teenagers Quentin Ndjantou and Ibrahim Mbaye produced eye-catching performances as Paris Saint-Germain returned to the top of Ligue 1 with a hard-fought 3-2 victory over bottom-placed Metz.

Ndjantou scored his first senior goal for PSG, while Mbaye provided two assists in an impressive attacking display. Goncalo Ramos opened the scoring for the visitors before substitute Desire Doue netted what proved to be the decisive third goal.

PSG coach Luis Enrique heaped praise on Ndjantou, calling him "the surprise of the beginning of the season" and highlighting his ability to combine midfield intelligence with forward movement. He was equally pleased with Mbaye, saying the 17-year-old showed freedom and confidence both on and off the ball.

With the Intercontinental Cup final against Flamengo looming in Qatar, Luis Enrique rotated heavily, resting several regular starters. Ballon d'Or winner Ousmane Dembele missed out due to illness, while Doue, Bradley Barcola, Joao Neves, Khvicha Kvaratskhelia and goalkeeper Lucas Chevalier all began on the bench.

Despite the changes, PSG struck first when Ramos headed in Lee Kang-in's cross on 31 minutes. Ndjantou doubled the lead eight minutes later, sliding home Mbaye's teasing delivery. Metz responded quickly through Jessy Deminguet's powerful strike from outside the box.

The hosts pressed after the break, with Habib Diallo missing a good chance to equalise. PSG regained control when Mbaye released Doue on a devastating counter-attack, the substitute racing clear from his own half to finish clinically.

Georgi Tsitaishvili's late curling effort set up a tense finale, but PSG held firm to secure the points and climb back to the summit. Lens can reclaim top spot on Sunday, while PSG turn their focus to continental duty buoyed by the emergence of their teenage stars.
